Add Intelligence and Power to Your Forms By Replacing Your Paper with Quizlets

Scenario

You need a strategy for collecting your clinical documentation, but you also want to move forward with CPOE, and would like to have them integrated.

You also have countless paper forms, many of which would improve if they were standardized, and would be easier to use if they pre-populated known information.

Almost all of the forms have sections that do not apply except under certain conditions, and most have complex business rules associated as well.

Some need digital signing, some co-signing, some even more signing, and all should be locked to a read-only view unless the user has the rights to update it.

RelWare Solution

You select OneRecord with their Quizlets, knowing that anything from the simplest form to the most complex clinical Pathway can be accomplished with this single technology.

Quizlets are intelligent, programmable forms, that are state-based, with role-based actions. Based on Model-View-Controller methodology, a Quizlet is able to render itself as an editable form; read/only form; locked PDF (with or without watermarks); and an unlocked PDF.

Quizlets are powerful in that they are small X2A2 programs, able to perform database executions or call workflow engines on any state transition. Actions can be created, assigned and configured to do just about anything.... except fill themselves out.
